1 Introduction

At Good Return we consider the safety and well-being of children to be a priority concern. Good Return adopts a zero tolerance approach to child abuse and exploitation and child pornography, including trafficking and other forms of exploitation, wherever and however they may occur in the context of Good Return activities.

All children without exception will be treated with appropriate respect and with recognition of their fundamental right to grow up safely and to enjoy a childhood that is free from exploitation and abuse. In all of its work Good Return sustains a focus on the rights of children that is in line with the UNHCR's Convention of the Rights of the Child, which in addition to the Child Protection Policy set forth by DFAT/Australian Aid, serves to guide Good Return policy on child protection.

With a programmatic approach of working primarily with partner agencies and adult beneficiaries, staff of Good Return are not usually directly involved in dealing with children. However many of the people Good Return partners work with are poor women with children, and occasionally Good Return supports partners on specific projects that interact directly with children. It is therefore appropriate that all Good Return staff adhere to this policy. Such adherence is monitored through various procedures and controls and through formal acknowledgement via signature of the Child Protection Code of Conduct (see Annex A).

2 Purpose

The purpose of this policy is to protect children from abuse and exploitation of any kind in the delivery of Good Return programs and services.

3 Definitions

Child/Children means anyone under the age of 18 years.

Guardian means any adult person who is legally responsible for the care and protection of a child

Child protection is a broad term to describe philosophies, policies, standards, guidelines and procedures to protect children from both intentional and unintentional harm

Child Abuse or "maltreatment" constitutes "all types of physical and/or emotional ill-treatment, sexual abuse, neglect, negligence and commercial or other exploitation, which results in actual or potential harm to the child's health, survival, development or dignity in the context of a relationship of responsibility, trust or power."

Contact with children means working in an activity or a position that involves contact with children, either under the position description, or due to the nature of the work environment.

Emotional or psychological abuse includes humiliating and degrading treatment such as bad name calling, intimidation, constant criticism, belittling, persistent shaming, solitary confinement and isolation.

Sexual abuse includes all forms of sexual violence including incest, early and forced marriage, rape, involvement in pornography, sexual slavery, indecent touching or exposure, using sexually explicit language towards a child and showing children pornographic material.

Neglect means deliberately, or through carelessness or negligence, failing to provide for, or secure for a child, their rights to physical safety, food, shelter and development.

Exploitation refers to one or more of the following: committing or coercing another person to commit an act/s of abuse, grooming or online grooming against a child, possessing controlling, producing, distributing or obtaining child exploitation material, or using a child for profit, labour, gratification or some other personal or financial advantage resulting in unjust, cruel and harmful treatment of the child.

Harm is the result of the exploitation, violence, abuse and neglect of children and can take many forms, including impacts of children's physical, emotional and behavioural development, their general health, their family and social relationships, their self esteem, their educational attainment and aspirations.

Good Return staff means any paid employee, in-country personnel, volunteer, contractor, Director or ambassador.

4 Guiding principles

Good Return supports and is committed to abiding by the following principles:

Zero tolerance to child abuse and exploitation: Child abuse and exploitation is not tolerated by Good Return, nor is possession of or access to child pornography. Good Return will actively manage risks of child abuse and exploitation associated with delivering its activities and trains its staff on their obligations. Good Return will not knowingly engage, directly or indirectly, anyone who poses an unacceptable risk to children, nor fund any individual or organisation that does not meet the child protection standards outlined in this policy in their own operations and activities.

Recognition of children's best interests: Australia is a signatory to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child. Good Return is committed to upholding the rights and obligations of this convention. Good Return recognizes that some children, such as children with disabilities and children living in areas impacted by disasters (natural or conflict based), are particularly vulnerable.

Sharing responsibility for child protection: To effectively manage risks to children, Good Return requires the active support and cooperation of contractors and partner NGOs implementing activities funded or supported by Good Return, directly and indirectly. Good Return expects contractors and partners to meet relevant terms of this child protection policy and holds them accountable for complying with it through our MoU and regular field visits.

Use of children's images: Use of photographs, videoing or other images of children will be done in a manner that is sensitive to local traditions, dignified and respectful, and that is an honest representation of the context and facts; advance permission will be obtained to use any image, and the possible use of such image explained (a Photo Release Form will be used whenever possible); no identifying information will be made available about any child in sending or posting images electronically. Training to the staff of partner organisations will stress that photographs should not be solely of children (unless the project works directly with children), and that any location information must only be at the regional/state level, rather than at the village level.

Risk management approach: While it is not possible to eliminate all risk of child abuse and exploitation, we will adopt a risk management approach to reduce the incidence of child abuse and exploitation associated with the delivery of our services and activities through an approach which combines an initial risk assessment (when we commence dealings with a partner) followed by subsequent field visits.

Incorporating child protection strategies into risk management procedures: In projects that work directly with children, risks to children are identified during initial risk assessments and are managed for the duration of the activity.

Procedural fairness: we will use fair and proper procedures when dealing with breaches of this Policy, recognising that our decisions could affect a person's rights and interests. We will contractually require our partner organisations to adhere to this principle when dealing with concerns or allegations of child exploitation and abuse.

Labour exploitation of children- we endorse ILO Convention 182 Concerning Prohibition and Immediate Action for the Elimination of the Worst Forms of Child Labour and expect partners to comply with labour laws regarding child labour.
